DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is in response to the request for continuation application filed 12/6/2002.
2. Claims 1, 3-9, 11-14 and 16-21 have been examined and are pending in the application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-3, 6-16 and 19-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cheng U.S Patent No. 6,151,643 in view of Jones U.S Patent No. 6,272,559.

As to claim 1, Cheng discloses connecting the application (client application 104, Fig. 1) to the information bus (106, Fig. 1) as an event consumer (client computer 101, Fig. 1); identifying data (relevant update for the software product, line 56 column 7) within the application (client application 104, line 55 column 7) that is needed; notifying (click on the continue button 411 to begin the installation process, lines 30-31 column 8) the information bus (106, Fig. 1) of the data needed (software update, line 32 column 8) from other participating applications (software vendor computer 103, line 40 column 8); receiving (indicates, line 9 column 8) notice of the data needed is available (a update to provide new features, lines 9-10 column 8) by data name (Quicken 5.0, line 9 column 8) from another participating application (software vendor computer 103, line 40 column 8); requesting (208, Fig. 2) the data by name (Quicken 5.0, line 9 column 8) via the information bus (106, Fig. 1). However, Cheng as disclosed does not explicitly teach event listener.

Jones teaches an event listener (an event listener, line 47 column 6) for monitoring announcements and notifications (sends notification of the event, line 46 column 6). It would have been obvious to apply the teachings of Jones to the system of Cheng because this allows a device to receive event notifications from a distributed network as disclosed by Jones (lines 39-56 column 6).

As to claim 3, Cheng as modified teaches changing the requested data (install update 212, Fig. 2) after receipt (download update 209, Fig. 2). However, Cheng does not teach announcing the data change. Instead, Cheng teaches the service provider computer (102, line 62 column 20) keeps information (download done, table2 column 21) in which when (date-time, table 2 column 21) the client computer finished the updating (success, table 2 column 21). It would have been obvious to consider the activity as discussed above as the client computer would let the server computer know that it has done the updating, therefore the server computer knows exactly the date and time of the finished job.

As to claim 6, Cheng as modified further teaches providing a view (403, 405, Fig. 4) associated with the data needed (401 Fig. 4).

As to claim 7, Jones further teaches the data is a Java Object (objects of the Java programming environment, lines 37-38 column 8).

As to claim 8, Cheng as modified further teaches providing (stores, line 32 column 6) descriptive and identifying information (applications, binary files, text files, and the like, lines 34-35 column 6) about the data (software updating information, line 34 column 6).

As to the apparatus of claim 9, note the discussion of the method claim 1 above.

As to claims 11-13, note the discussions of claims 3 and 6-7 above, respectively.

As to the computer program product of claim 14, note the discussion of the method of claim 1 above.

As to claim 16, note the discussion of claim 3 above.

As to claims 19-21, note the discussions of claims 6-8 above, respectively.

4. Claims 4-5 and 17-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cheng in view of Jones, and further in view of Barnett U.S Patent No. 6,356,948.

As to claim 4, Chang as modified does not teach specify the data name. Barnett discloses client application receives data from server computer (Fig. 2); specifying the data name (packet identifier, line 47 column 5) by way of a property (type of data contained in the data packet, lines 63-64 column 5). It would have been obvious to apply the teachings of Barnett to the system of Cheng as modified because the client computer needs to know what data it is getting and if the data is suitable for the client application, therefore the client computer can make the decision of downloading the data or not, as disclosed by Barnett (lines 34-54 column 5).

As to claim 5, Barnett further teaches specifying the data name (packet identifier, line 47 column 5) by way of a parameter (packet header 112, Fig. 7).

As to claims 17 and 18, note the discussions of claims 4 and 5 above, respectively.

Response to the request for continuation application

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 3-9, 11-14 and 16-21 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) rejection.

Applicant's arguments presented issues which required the Examiner to further view the previous rejection. The Examiner conducted a further search regarding the issues mentioned in Applicant's response. Therefore, all arguments regarding the cited references of the previous rejection are moot in view of the new grounds of rejection.
